The materials that Lois wanted to discuss. See her ask below. Could possibly be a down-and-back the same day kind of trip.

Rick -

Here is the info and paper. I worked on the paper when I was at IVCC. I had to choose between IVCC and WHO and I picked WHO to support Marion Law who took the position as head of the unit I worked to set up.

It would be good if someone from EPA could attend the event on Sept 15th. Could even be a staff person.

If you have any questions, just call.

Best,

On 15th September 2017 at the Duke University offices in Washington DC (1201 Pennsylvania Avenue NW, Suite 500) there will be the 'launch' / press conference for the Vector Expedited Review Voucher initiative. The event is from 8am to 9.45 am (possibly an 8.30 am start) and is targeted primarily at Congressional staffers associated with committees that influence health care and the EPA. The name of the event is Policy Solutions for Health Innovation: New Proposals for Market-Based Incentives. It is likely that Mark McClellan and/or Greg Daniel will also speak about their research on antibiotic resistance at the event.
